

Allison Corbyn serves as the Senior Director at Western Skies Strategies. She has over a decade of experience in community development, strategic initiatives, and government relations. From interfacing, problem solving, and negotiating with Fortune 500 executives to helping a "mom and pop" value-added agricultural company secure state-level grant funding, Allison knows how to clear the path for success. Adept at identifying key partnerships across all industries, she has spent significant time working with municipal and state governments to move private-sector projects forward, ensuring a win-win for communities and businesses alike, driving over one-hundred million dollars of investment in the state of Montana.